

Louise Caldwell

Brass Tutor - Intermediate Concert Band

Louise attained a Higher National Diploma in music from James Watt College and then studied at the University of Glasgow, where she received an honours degree in music.

Louise has been a brass tutor for South Lanarkshire Council since 2016 working with many school bands and brass ensembles.

Louise is a trombonist who has played with various bands and orchestra and played with many different musicals societies. She has been arranging music for various bands and enjoys composing music for different ensembles.

Louise currently works as a brass tutor with South Lanarkshire Orchestral Society's Intermediate Concert Band and previously tutored in South Lanarkshire Orchestral Society's Junior Concert Band.

When not playing Louise loves singing. She is passionate that everyone should have the opportunity to play in bands and orchestra and she is looking forward to working with the Intermediate Concert Band as a brass tutor.
