

Sarah McQueen

Cello Tutor - Senior String Orchestra

Sarah McQueen (née Murray) took up the cello in Aberdeenshire at the age of eight and moved to Glasgow in 1999 to study cello with Myra Chahin and baroque cello with Alison McGillivray at the RSAMD (now the Royal Conservatoire of Scotland).

Whilst at the Conservatoire, Sarah won the Governors' Chamber Music Prize and the British Reserve Insurance Prize for Early Music.

Sarah has played as a member of the National Youth Orchestra of Scotland, Camerata Scotland and the Dunedin Consort and has recorded with Scots singer Emily Smith.

Since graduating with a Postgraduate Diploma of Music in 2004, Sarah has taught strings and the Kodály method for a variety of Scottish regional councils and cello at Fettes College, Edinburgh. Sarah currently freelances and teaches for the Royal Conservatoire of Scotland.

Sarah is passionate about bringing positive musical experiences to young people.
